WESLEYAN VICTORY

CRIPPLED VARSITY DEFEATED—FIRST HALF HARD FOUGHT

A badly crippled Hamilton team met Wesleyan at Middletown on Saturday last, and were defeated 27-0. The points were tallied by a goal from the field, a safety and four touchdowns. Few penalties were inflicted thruout the game. The absence of Drummond materially weakened the team, leaving it without a reliable punter, and it was due to this fact that the score was so large.

The first half was closely contested, ending with the score 8-0, in Wesleyan's favor. The field goal was inevitable, but the touchdown was due to the poor handling of a punt which the Wesleyan end covered. In the second half, three more touchdowns and a safety were added to Wesleyan's score, for the most part, on account of Hamiltons weakened line, and Wheeler's ineffective, short punts. The Wesleyan Argus reports Harper and Sidle, the stars of the Varsity line-up.

The game in detail:

Wesleyan opened the game after the kick-off with sharp line plays. McCaffrey and Petigrue, with an occasional run by a tackle, carried the ball straight to the Hamilton goal line, where the latter braced and held Wesleyan for downs. After Wheeler had kicked to the 25 yard line Wesleyan again took up the advance, and from the 20 yard line Reynolds dropped an easy goal from the field after twelve minutes of play.

Hamilton again kicked off and received the ball on downs. Working a quick shift the Varsity made a few narrow gains, and finally made a poor kick out of bounds. Rice and McCaffrey carried the ball down the field, and Reynolds tried for another field goal, but missed. Wheeler punted from the 25 yard line and Wesleyan after a few substanial gains lost the ball on downs. Reynolds returned Hamilton's punt which Wilcox recovered, carrying it to the one-yard line. Petigrue made the touchdown. Reynolds narrowly missed the goal. The first half ended with the score 8-0.

Wesleyan kicked off to Hamilton who punted, giving Wesleyan the ball on the 30 yard line. An end run carried the ball to the edge of the field, and, tho Hamilton was offside on the next play, Wesleyan refused the penalty, Rice being dragged over the line for another touchdown. Reynolds kicked the goal, leaving the score 14-0.

Wesleyan carried the ball immediately to Hamilton's 20 yard line, but lost it there. Pazzetti was substituted for Reynolds, and on the next play a safety was scored on a blocked kick. Pazzetti dodged finely on the kick-off for 25 yards and three more plays put the ball over the line and Pazzetti kicked the goal. Score 22-0. Another touchdown was scored before the end of the half, McCaffrey carrying the ball over. Parkinson failed to kick the goal leaving the final score 27-0.

The Varsity held signal practice in the Gymnasium, last Thursday night, in preparation for the Rutger's game.

City Judge R. C. S. Drummond,'01 of Auburn, addressed the University Convocation at Albany last Friday evening, on the subject of "Athletics." Several Hamilton graduates were present.

RUTGERS WINS

VARSITY LOSES A SPECTACULAR GAME IN THE LAST MINUTE OF PLAY

In perhaps the best and most exciting game of football played on the Hill in several years, the Varsity went down to defeat Saturday by the score of 8 to 5. The game was not decided until the last minute of play when Alverson, the Rutgers left tackle, dropped a pretty goal from the field while standing on the 25 yard line.

Neither team could cross for a touchdown in the first half, although time after time it seemed that Hamilton must cross the last chalk mark, for by brilliant back field work the ball was carried irresistibly up the field to the five yard line, only to be lost on downs or fumbled. About the only poor judgment used in the game came when the quarter back, after many fruitless attempts to puncture the Rutgers line defence, sent his backs into the red line within 5 yards of the goal instead of signalling them for an end run. Throughout the half Hamilton gained almost at will around the wings, and nearly every end run was good for at least five yards, but, with the coveted touchdown in sight, the whole team apparently forgot that there was such a thing as an end run and the plays jammed at the centre of the line met with repulse.

During the entire first half the ball was always in Rutger's territory due mainly to the phenomenal punting of Drummond and the splendid back field work of Harper, Sidle and Knox, Harper being especially strong on his end runs and skin tackle plays. Drummond's punting was the feature of the game, time after time sending away long twisting spirals, which the Rutgers quarter had difficulty in handling. Some of the kicks were about 60 yards and the ends covered them better than in any previous contest of the season.

In fact Hamilton's play thruout was something of a revelation to her followers, who had lost faith in the team after its many defeats. The backfield worked like a clock, the quarter backs got their plays off quickly and their judgment was at least fair. The ends were invincible, but unfortunately the line was not only outweighed but badly outplayed and allowed the opposing men to break through, and mess several plays before they started. Wheeler and Fiske were the chief offenders in their weak play although no single man in the line outplayed his opponent.

As long as Drummond was in the game, the Varsity held her own, and more in the kicking game, but with his withdrawal on account of severe injuries punting ability was nil and it was this lamentable weakness which finally allowed Alverson to get away the kick that won the game for Rutgers. He made three attempts before he was successful, but there was not a man on the team who could kick out of danger. Two of Alverson's kicks went wide, and one went into the line but was covered by Knox. Once the Varsity put the ball in scrimmage on the 25 yard line, but on Alverson's last miss Wheeler punted from the 20 yard line. The attempted punt was a miserable failure, travelling only about 20 yards, and, to make matters worse, some of the substitutes on the side line took it upon themselves to tell their team-mates how the game should be played, which cost Hamilton the game, the 15 yard penalty following this, putting the visitors in direct line for the goal from the field.

Rutgers touchdown came about the middle of the second half when Hamilton quavered and finally gave completely away before the smashing attack of the Rutgers' backs who ploughed their way to the five yard line and sent the ball across with a revolving play off Fiske.

Hamilton's score was made on one of the prettiest plays of the game, an onside kick which Peters recovered and dashed across the goal line just as he was tackled by the Rutgers' quarter. The ends of the line were at all times strong and repeatedly plays directed at the wings were thrown back for a loss. Drummond was playing his first game as an end and his work on the defense was commendable, while Peters and Burdick, who went in when Drummond was laid out, showed better form both at sizing up plays and following the ball than at any time this year. Of the back field too much can not be said. They ran hard, tackled sure and picked what meagre holes the linemen opened up in great shape. Harper was the star of the game, his work on the offense being brilliant, not only for his long end runs but for the way in which he kept going after being tackled. On the defence he showed up better than is his wont. Both Sidle and Knox kept pace with Harper, and Kultchar and Abbott when they went in braced up the jaded team in splendid fashion.

Toward the end of the game the Hamilton line came into its own and after miserable punting had given Rutgers a dangerous p osition held them and forced drop kicks on four occasions. On the whole, the game was a spectacular one, and one in which the Varisty showed for the first time ability as a machine.

The game in detail follows: Drummond kicked off to the Rutgers 15-yard line and the ball went out of bounds. Alverson punted to Harper on Rutgers' 30-yard line. Stone carried the ball ten yards around left end, Knox added five yards and Rutgers took the ball on downs on her eight-yard line. Alverson punted to Stone, and Hamilton was penalized 15 yards for failure at forward pass, Drummond punted and Harper covered the ball on Rutgers' ten-yard line. After two line plunges, Rutgers held for downs on her five-yard line. Rutgers punted to the center of the field. Harper gained five yards through the line, and, then punted to Traver on Rutgers' 20-yard line. Traver returned the ball ten yards and was thrown by Drummond. Rutgers suffered penalty for failure at forward pass and punted to Harper who returned the ball 15 yards from the center of the gridiron.

Then a punting contest between Drummond and Alverson continued for several minutes. Hamilton again forced the ball to within seven yards of the Rutgers' goal and lost it on downs. Alverson punted to Stone on the former's 45-yard line. Stone returned the ball five yards and Knox made a pretty run to Rutgers' 15-yard line. Sidle and Harper netted five yards more and Knox placed the ball on Rutgers' four-yard line. Again Rutgers held for downs and Alverson punted to Stone on the 35-yard line.

Stone came back 15 yards. Having been penalized 15 yards on an attempted forward pass Hamilton punted to Traver on Rutgers' 13-yard line. Leslie circled right end for ten yards, Overton added three yards more through the line, and Alverson ran ten yards around right end. Overton punted to Knox on Rutgers' 50-yard line and Knox returned the ball ten yards. Drummond punted to Traver on the latter's 20-yard line where the first half ended with the ball in Rutgers' possession. Score Rutgers 0, Hamilton 0.

As the second half opened Alverson kicked off to Harper on the 10-yard line. Harper returned the ball 10 yards. The Hamilton line seemed to weaken at this juncture, allowing Overton to worm through for 20 yards on the next play. Traver and Alverson then carried the ball to Hamilton's five-yard line. On a play through center followed by a line plunge, Overton carried the ball over for the first touchdown of the game. Score, Rutgers 5, Hamilton 0. Alverson failed to kick the goal.

Drummond kicked off to Rutgers 15-yard line. Van Winkle fumbled and White covered the ball. Abbott replaced Sidle. Rutgers could gain no ground and punted to Stone on Hamilton's 45-yard line. Harper carried the ball 20 yards around left end Knox was twice thrown for a loss, and Drummond punted to Overton on Rutgers' 20-yard line. Overton gained five yards on a line plunges and Alverson added 10 yards around right end. Drummond punted to Rutgers' 45-yard line and Smith, receiving the ball, was downed in his tracks. On a fumble Abbott covered the ball in the center of the field, Harper circled left end for 10 yards, Knox gained five yards round right and another five yards thro the line. Kultchar, who supplanted Harper at left half, then made an onside kick to Rutgers' 12-yard line. Alverson punted out to McGovern on the 45-yard line. The next play was a 12-yard gain for Hamilton on the first successful forward pass of the game, Kultchar to Fiske. Another pass followed, adding eight yards and the ball was placed on Rutgers' 22-yard line. Hamilton then began to lose ground and Kultchar kicked onside to Peters, who carried the ball over for a touchdown. No goal.

Alverson kicked off to Abbott on the 15-yard line and the ball was returned five yards. Kultchar added three yards and Knox kicked onside to Overton on the 40-yard line. Leslie and Traver each gained five yards thro the line and Rutgers failed at a field goal. Hamilton took the ball on the 25-yard line and by a fumble sacrificed it to Rutgers on the 15-yard line. Rutgers tried again for a field goal and failed. Alverson finally succeeded, however, in kicking a goal from the 35-yard line, adding three point to the Rutgers score. The final score was: Rutgers 8, Hamilton 5.

IT HAS BEEN DECIDED to hold cheering practice on the field on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 4 o'clock. Good cheering should be in evidence during the last two games of the schedule, and practice is absolutely necessary to secure it. Every man in College, should be there at the appointed time, for a short, snappy practice. Three hours a week does not mean much for any one man, but it will make a lot of difference with the Hamilton cheering during the rest of the season. Let us all turn out with a hearty and enthusiastic will, and make these last few practices an encouragement to the team, and an inspiration to the College. LIFE is sure that no further urging is necessary. Every man of us is needed, and that should be reason enough to secure our co-operation and attendance.

THE FIRST ISSUE of our sister publication appeared during the past week. It was one that does honor to the College, and one of which the Board who publishes it should be proud. To see the Lit. on good paper, in an attractive cover, is surely an indication that Hamilton publications are progressing—and for the better. Perhaps there is no one thing that so shows a College to the world as her publications and Lit., with its present high standard of literary work, and in its present form and garb, surely shows us well. LIFE congratulates the new Board on the first result of its efforts. The October Lit. surely should be a reward for all the time which has been spent on it.

THOSE OF US WHO REMEMBERED the successes of The Charlatans cannot but rejoice at the announcement that the company is reorganizing and will add a histrionic diversion to the gaieties of another Junior Week. The previous efforts of The Charlatans have been highly successful from every point of view. Last year they offered nothing on the boards; a Bernard Shaw play had been contemplated, but was found to exact much more rehearsal-time than any of the cast could spare. We trust a less pretentious comedy will be chosen for this season, that there may be no danger of biting off more than the various Charlatans can chew. The new cast is not yet announced, but we may expect to see among the performers Getman, I. Hall, Harper, Hastings, and Dounce, who were Charlatans in the earlier plays. The profits from the Junior Week production will be devoted, as before, to some one of the Athletic Departments. LIFE wishes the latter day Charlatans all possible good luck in their venture, and is confident of a first-class production.

OFTENTIMES, we go along the stone walk in front of the chapel, during the morning that LIFE is issued. Two undergraduates are standing on the steps, one with a copy in his hand. "I think that the sentiment expressed in the first editorial is all wrong," we hear one man say. "I agree you," remarks the other, "but that last editoral certainly hits the mark." We pass on, troubled or pleased perhaps—as the case may be—and hear no more.

Such discussions occur after every issue of LIFE, and after every issue of every periodical in every community. Criticism favorable or unfavorable is sure to follow the reading of a periodical, and especially of editorial comment. True, it is only natural, but what we ask is that, instead of criticising without accomplishing a result, you write a letter to the editor. Sign it, and you may be sure that it will be published. The College must realize that editorials are, at the best, but the opinion of one man, and, as such, may differ from its own ideas. If your opinion is sound, it is worth suggesting to the College in these columns. If not, you will, at least, have given vent to your feelings. This editorial column is headed "Contributions and expressions of opinion are solicited from the student-body and from interested alumni." We mean it, and hope for your co-operation. That cannot help but make LIFE a better publication, and that should receive the aid of every Hamilton man.

RUMOR HAS IT that there were under-hand political methods operating, sub rosa perhaps, but still just as noticeable, in the recent Freshman elections. This may be true, or it may not, but it is not the purpose of this comment to accuse any crowd or any individual—simply to warn those who may be uninformed, is its aim. If there was a deal of any kind, it was a disgrace to every crowd or individual engaged in it. If the rumor be unfounded, it at least should serve as a warning. There was a time—and not so long ago—when every College and every class meeting was tainted by the methods of some embryotic politicians, for so they thought themselves. By the united efforts of one class, this fault was to a great extent obliterated. Its removal is a credit to the College, No class or crowd should take it upon themselves to revive a fault, which it has taken years to overcome. Underhand methods in elections may bring a College honor at a certain time, but in the long run, only harm can result to the crowd, the individual, and—what should concern us most—the College.

We hope that no one will deduct an accusation from this comment. It is not meant as such, but, if perchance the shoe fits anyone, surely he may put it on. We have freed ourselves from this evil, so often present in our colleges; let us not, at any rate, revive it, and perhaps, even better—forget that such an institution ever existed in Hamilton. That means a good accomplished for the College. What better goal can be the aim of a Hamilton man? Let us get together, and every man look out for himself and for his crowd. Then, no danger of 'deals' need be feared or discussed. They will be forgotten—a memory of a barbarous age.

THE CLIPPING FOLLOWING, from the Colgate Madisonensis, may be of interest to the College. LIFE appreciates the friendly attitude shown by the Colgate student-body, but notwithstanding it, can not yet see any gain to the College in meeting our old rivals on the gridiron. Good results there may be, but we fail to see them.

"The 48-0 score of the Hamilton-Colgate game has opened a debate at Clinton on the question, shall there be any more football games between the two institutions? They consider our eleven in a class with the best college teams in the country. They believe that we have grown too strong for them, that the intense interest in the annual event is on the wane.

Altho we sympathize with the position taken by the Hamilton students, nevertheless we shall regret extremely a severance of football relations. Now it is true that our teams are heavier than those produced at Hamilton; but it should be remembered that the tendency of the present and, presumably of the future, is a departure from the old style of football. The feature of modern football is open play. The light team of the small college can win by speed and strategy. Hamilton has demonstrated this point very emphatically in previous games.

This year Colgate has an unusually strong team, heavy and fast; but Hamilton has not produced as speedy an eleven as it has in the past. With the graduation of the Senior class we lose twelve Varsity men. Good teams and good seasons come in streaks. Next year we may be humbled by Hamilton, for Colgate after all is a college of a little over 300 students—and not 800, as our friend the Post-Standard imagines.

The Hamilton LIFE sums up its editorial on the matter with the sentence "Think it over." By all means think it over. We are pleased to note the manly tone of the article stating Hamilton's attitude. It is not the cry of a "sore" man; it is a frank expression of loyal College spirit. We shall eagerly await Hamilton's final decision."

NEW CATALOG

The College Catalog has lately been issued from the press. The distinctive features of the new edition are the two prize foundations which appear for the first time: one, in honor of Dr. Brandt, a prize of $50, for the Senior who excels in German. The prize is to be awarded by competition. The other affords three prize scholarships for Freshman year, and are to be awarded to those who shall pass the best oral examination at the College in September upon The Gospel of Luke and three books of the Iliad. The successful contestants must have a grade of not less than 7.

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet will be held in Silliman Hall tomorrow at three o'clock.

St. Lawrence Saturday

Next Saturday the Varsity will meet St. Lawrence on Steuben Field and, so far, every indication points to a repetition of last year's game. This year St. Lawrence has lost a few men, including "Sandy" Calder, nevertheless they still have their veteran back field, and will be prepared to make a hard fight. St. Lawrence made a splendid showing against Vermont, and have shown up creditably against teams much their superior in weight.

Altho several of the Varsity were injured in the Rutgers game, it is expected that the regular team will be in shape for Saturday.

The probable line-up is:

St. Lawrence		Hamilton
McCormick	Right End	Peters
Smith	Right Tackle	Baldwin
Sims	Right Guard	Wisehart
Olds	Center	Wheeler
Calder (Capt.)	Right Halfback	Harper
Zimmerman	Left Halfback	Knox
Williams	Quarterback	McGovern (Stone)
Griffith	Fullback	Sidle

A NEW SONG

The following song is submitted to the student body:

TUNE:

"My Wife's Gone to the Country."

We're out to stick Old Union. (St. L.)
Hurray! Hurray!
The Buff and Blue
Can smash right thru—
They'll surely have their way.
We've got the team to back us.
Hurray! Hurray!
The Garnet bunch is done for good.
And Hamilton wins today.

NEXT SATURDAY'S GAMES

This week's Football schedule is one of the most attractive of the season. The results of many of the games are expected to furnish some basis on which to decide what the probable outcome of the big games for the next two weeks will be. Watrous, of Clinton; and Mrs. W. M. Osborn, of New Hartford. Millard, of Frankfort; Miss Jones, of Norwich; Miss Perry, of Herkimer; Miss Knox, of Knoxboro; Miss Weist, of Boonville; and Miss Blizard, of Waverly. The other guests were: Prof. Shearer, Rev. H. W. Crydenwise, and Prof. Lewis, of Clinton; Leavetts Brown, of New York; O. P. Robinson, of Corning; John D. Henderson, '68, of Herkimer; J. A. Minor, '94, of New York; Robert G. Kelsey, '98, of New York; Richard C. S. Drummond, '01, of Auburn; Robert U. Hayes, '05, of Clinton; John D. Henderson, '08, of Herkimer, and Earl W. Anibal, '08, of Seneca Falls; H. P. Osborn, '09, of New Hartford; and W. H. Moore, ex-'09, of Albany.

CROSS-COUNTRY ACTIVITY

At Schenectady, Saturday afternoon, the Cross-Country Team representing Union defeated the Hamilton four by a score of 20 to 8. The course was four miles in length, dirt road, and unfamiliar to both teams. Unusual rivalry was created by the fact that last year's meet at Clinton resulted in a 14-14 tie. This year Union was represented by Travis, '11, who finished first in 1908, Convard, '12, also of last year's team, Rogers and Wallace, '13. Knox and Renwick, '10, veterans, and Bates and Eggleston, '12, wore the Hamilton colors. Rogers and Travis finished first and second, and were followed by Captain Knox. The time was 21:14. Kuolt, '07, was one of the officials of the meet. Each man was scored as many points as he had men behind him at the finish.

In the Dual Cross-Country Run of October 23rd, Colgate repeated her victory of 1908 by exactly the same score, 13-8. The course, starting from Sigma Phi Hall and extending five miles west over muddy, uphill roads, taxed the endurance of the men severely. Bezant, '10, of Colgate, broke the tape in front of Emerson Hall at 3:46, having completed the course in thirty-two minutes and forty-seven seconds. He was hard pressed by Captain Knox, '10, who finished some thirty feet behind. Seigler, of Colgate, ran third, Rowe and Northway, of the same team, tying for fourth and fifth places, respectively. Eggleston, '12, Renwick, '10, and Bates, '12, were the last to put in an appearance, all three finishing in excellent condition.

The customary system of scoring was followed out, the first three men of each team being counted. First place scored one point, second place two, and so on, the team with the smallest score winning. Sherwin, '10, acted as starter, and Colson and Gaige, '11, as judges.

A number witnessed the finish and expressed their approval of Bezant's time, as well as Knox's plucky fight and the excellent condition in which the entire Hamilton team finished.

HILL NOTES

The Manager of Intermural sports announces that arrangements are being made for a Senior-Junior foot-ball game next week.

H. E. Pearsall, Brown, '08, was a guests of Coach Pryor last week and assisted in coaching the Varsity backs. Mr. Pearsal played half-back on the Brown Varsity team and was able to give the men some valuable assistance.

Professor Lewis and Dr. Miller attended the Teacher's Institute at Whitesboro last Thursday. Hull, '71, was in charge of the meeting, and introduced Professor Lewis as one of the speakers.
